The blatant Democrat at Monee, who boasts that he has one hundred Irish votes in his hat, needs a word of kindly warning. Will not that their prospects are more desperate than ever. Boots and Shoes.

The U. S. Economies has collected some interesting statistics on the manufacture of Boots and Shoes in this country. The quantity required for the consumption of the United States is not far from 75,000,000 pairs per annum. Of these 12,000,000 pairs are made in Massachusetts, at a value of $40,000,000 per annum, and they employ 45,000 men and 32,826 women. One-half of this employment is in Lynn, which is the largest shoe-shop in the United States. The next is Philadelphia, which makes $4,000,000, mostly fine work, while that of Lynn is coarse work. The production is great in every city, town and hamlet of the Union, and the whole value is not less than $30,000,000 per annum. Of the shoe houses, four sail over $1,000,000 seah per annum. In Philadelphia there are 475 manufacturers, whose aggregate sales amount to $4,141,000, and Philadelphia bells probably $10,000,000 worth of Kastern work in addition.

RAILWAY PRON CHICAGO TO NEW ORLEAMS.—Several weeks since, the negotiation of the Missiasippi Central Railroad Company for the iron required to complete their line, was announced. ern lines from Mobile and New Orleans have been constructed chiefly from local resources. The Mobile and Ohio Railroad Company has its laid grant under the same act of Congress which conveyed the lands to the State of Illinois. The President of the Company has recently concluded the purchase of some 15,800 tuns of iron, now on the way to Mobile, which will suffice so complete the line. The question of the greater permanence of the traffic arising from an interchange of business between points at different parallels of latitude is ably discussed by Mr. Fisher in the report alluded us, and this railway connection, which will convey passengers from New Orleans to Chicago in forty-four hours, in lieu of live or six days river navigation to Gairo, the terminus of the Illinois Central, is likely to become one of the most important in the country.—N. Douglas and a Federal Slave Code. Gov. Wise, of Virginia, has written a lettler n favor of Douglas. The points he makes are substantially, that Douglas is, amongst other things, in favor of the admission of Slave States, things, in favor of the admission of Slave States, or the "equality of the States" as Wise phrases it; that he is in favor of "Protection in the territories, and everywhere, to all rights of persons and property, it. c. claves, in accordance with the rights of the States, and with the Constitution and laws of the Union,"

There are other points which Mr. Wise offers as reasons for sustaining Douglas—but those quoted will suffice for Northern minds. Douglas certainly chested somebody by his Presport speech.—Minnesotian.

talks about them. He speaks of Brother Brigham Young:

We feund him surrounded by quite a retime of his own people, helding various subordinate positions in the Mormon organization. He is a hule, hearty, and, in some senses of the word, rather good-looking man, with light hair and eyes. His face indicates intelligent shrewdness, coolness, conceit and unbounded self-reliance. A close, calculating, Vermont Yankee, with very little of the enthusiast about him. If he is really the fanatic he prefends to be, there is certainly the most admirable method in his madness. He makes every edge cut. Everything in Mormondom is tributary to him. He lives in affinence and luxury, he dines sumptonosity every day; while it is a tributary to him. He lives in afficience and luxur he dines sumptiously every day; while it is common thing among his people for families to g for weeks and months without an ounce of meal and to see women bare-footed working in the fields, one-fifth of whose harvests are gathered in to the granaries of the Church. fields, one-fifth of whose harvests are gathered into the granaries of the Church.

I likewise had the honor, while in the city, of seeing Orson Hyde, the President of the Twelve Aposttes—a big, burly, broad shouldered, red-faced looking customer, with so little of the apostolic is his mien that yee would naturally exclaim, on having him pointed out to you, "He's bound to be a butcher, by jabers!"

Of this apostolic Jakey Keyser, Brigham is as formidable aspirant to the prophetic mantle when death, who is no respecter of persons, shall unclasp it from his own shoulders. Now, Brigham intends that a successor to the mantle storeasid shall rise up from his own seed, and hence looks askance at the apostolic Orson, shof gives him a dig in the fifth rib, once in a while, as occasion serves. Perhaps "the most unkindest cut of all?" is this—Brigham says that the Twelve Apostles of the Church of Latter-Day Saints are each descended in a direct line from one of the original twelve, and that it has been revealed to him that Brother Orson has the readers may better this outrage, and what fed to it, we will briefly recapitulate some circumstances which preceded it:

About a year since, an old man by the name of Hell, together with one of his sons residing in Harrison county, nearly opposite Brandenburg, Kentucky, were kindapped and carried into Kentucky on snapicion of secreting runnwyshaves. There was no positive evidence going to implicate the Bells in anything of the sort, the information being given by a miscreant, who has several indictments for perjury hanging over him. However, the more suspicion was sufficient to put the chiralry of Kentucky in motion. Accordingly a gong of ruifians from Brandenburg ceme over in the hightime, armed with pistols, bowie-knives and other weapons, but no warrant of law, and seized the Hells, the older one being sevently years of age. While a portion of the chiralrous Kentuckians were engaged in securing the did man, and his son, another portion of them stood goard over the old voman and a little grid, who were the only immutes of the house, benifes the two kidnapped Bells.

These gallant gentlemen stood over the lady with draws weapons, threatening to blow out her brains if she made any resistance, and yet also the stood goard over the old voman and a little grid, who were the only immutes of the house, benifes the two kidnapped Bells.

These gallant gentlemen stood over the lady with draws weapons, threatening to blow out her brains if she made any resistance, and yet the war to suck at the time to get out of bed, he was too sick at the time to get out of bed, for more than nine monstan. The friends of Bell, from this side of the river, endeavored to have his trial brought on, but this did not suit the convenience of those who were prosecuting; they were not ready. An attempt was made to have the mount of the chiral brain the surface of Brandenburg, in broad daylight, and his murdeer was allowed to make his escape, no doubt with the aid and connivasice of the citizens of Brandenburg, in broad daylight, and his murde

Union.

In the meantime Carl. Horsee Bell, and hi brother John, who were residing in California hearing of the condition of affairs, determises to return home to Indiana and release their father, or perish in the attempt. It was anoble and filial duty they undertook to perform, an most gallanly did they perform it. All bono to them for the deed. They could have gather earned whem a regiment of gallant Indianal. to them for the deed. They could have gather ed around them a regiment of gallant Indiani ans, who, if need be, would not have left on stone; upon another of the Brandenburg jail But they choose rather to undertake the work of deliminate themselves, and not implicate others lift the matter. Accordingly they went over to Brandenburg in a skiff, in broad day—went quietly and unostentialionally to be prison—were admitted to see their father and heart of the seed that the seed heart of the seed the seed the seed the seed the seed the seed to be seen their father and heart of the seed t

Accordingly they went over to Brandenhurg in a skift, in broad day—went in Brandenhurg in a skift, in broad day—went quietly and uncestentiationaly to the prison—were admitted to see their father and brother, and in a very few minutes the whole four were on their way to the river, without any particular violence being offered to any one, except the little whole-some restraint imposed upon the lady who had the jall in charge.

They were soon in their skiff and rowing for the Indians shore. Before reaching midway of the Ohio, the whole population of Brandenburg seemed to be in motion, and runhing down towards the beach. Capt. Bell arose to his feet and gracefully saluted them with a wave of his hat. Those on shore soon opened upon him a furious fire of pistols, shot gans, muskets, etc. This was a compliment which the Captain well knew how to return, with interest, and he opened upon them with his Derringer pistol—a six shooter, that will kill a man at half a mile distance, as easy as at ten paces. This had the effect to disperse the crowd, most of whom took sheller in a blacksmith shop, the doors of which were pretty thoroughly riddled by the discharges from the skiff. And thus ended the second scone in the drama.

Whether the Bells were ever indicted for this summary jail delivery at Brandenburg, we are not advised; but whether they were or not, this kidnapping of Capt. Bell was none the less unlawful, outrageous and cowardly. We understand, however, that a pony purse was raised by the high-spirited chirvairy of Brandenburg, and a reward was offered for the delivery of Capt. Bell to the public authorities of that county. What they propose to do with him after they get him, we are at a less to conjecture. He simply observed the scriptural injunction, to "open the prison doors and the thus prisoners go free." He broke open no doors, he forced no locks. What he had to do he didjuistly and in order, and then with commendable brevity took his leave. And ciutches, we are much missaken if they don't find themselvas somewnat in the condition of the man who won the elephant in a raffle—they won't know what to do with him, unless they gint their vengeance by hanging him upon some tree in the neighborhood—and this it has been shrewdly hinted they propose to do.

But this was no concern of the bloodhounds who kidnapped him on Saturday. It was the reward—the money—that excited their unsanctified cupidity, and impelled them onward to do the deed. What cared they about vindicating the violated honor of the Commonwealth—with them the love of money was the governing principle.

A JUVENILE CUT-THANAY.—A singular crime was perpetrated in Detroit on Saturday. A colored boy about nise years old, named Charles Points, who had just served out a term in jail for theft, meeting a little boy named Drew hardly five years of age, told him to hold up his bead and he would cut it off. The unsuspecting child obeyed, when Points immediately drew a knife across his throat, inflicting a gash about four inches in length. The dullness of the knife alone prevented fatal consequences. A very extraordinary occurrence has just come to light here. It appears that on Tuesday after last Carroll Court, Abner Brady, whose age is supposed to be about sixty years, went to the well of Mr. Crocket, a hotal keeper in this place, and, in attempting to send down the bucket, fell in. He was missed, but it seems no one suspected he was in the yell until yesterday, for Mr. C.'s 's lamly used water from the well until then, a period of about nine days, when it became vary offensive. On searching for the cause, Mr. C. and another man discovered the body and brought it up.

Espionage of American School Girls in Paus.—The following extract from a recent letter of a young American girl in Paris furnishes an amusing instance of the application of the French Emperor's system:

"I want to tell you a queer 'accident that befel me the other day. As my friend—and I were walking away from the garden of the Tuileries, about six o'clock, and talking about Napoleon First, I saw a soldier near us, who happened to overhear the word Napoleon. Whereupon he pricked up his ears, picked up his gan and followed us from there all the way across the bridge, where we, being a little frightened, took a carriage home. He watched us for some time, and seing there was nothing wrong, went back. I sappose he took us for conspirators. You know this Napoleon has spies at every corner, and if they hear the name Napoleon, they immediately suspect something is wrong, and try to find you out. He is a horrid man, as you know, and the greatest coward living. All these beautiful things that he is doing to keep his people amused, show as much as anything that he is afraid."

DEATH OF PRINCE GHEA.—" As I we walking on the Champs Elysées, near is round point, on the 22d September, about P. M., I was suddenly startled by a nois looked around, and saw a Victoria Attelé in livery, with two horses, coming with the speed of lightning. The steeds were ful blood, and ran like mad devils. Just at they came opposite to me, and within terfect, Prince Ghika sprang to the reius and drew on them with giant strength. For a moment, all hoped he would stop the furious animals. But, alse! it was not to be so! The roins broke; the Prince lost his balance, and was precipitated head first on to the pavement. In an instant more, the postillion fell from his seat, and the mad creatures went their furious way amid the terrified crowd. The Prince was taken to the nearest drug-store, and thence to his home, where he dited at 8 v'olcok, without here. Orders from the Country promptly filled, and see drug-store, and thence to his home, where h

The Berlin correspondent of the New York ribune, in describing the insanity of the King of Prussia, which, as is usual in cases arising rom softening of the brain, is intermittent, what has keined the king of Prussia.

Champague has been the ruin of the King of Prussia. When he first ascended the throne he was an elegant, accomplished gentleman. His amiability, his high moral character, and his acquirements, were known throughout Europe, and in Prussia he was as popular as a monarch could be. It has fiver been the impression however, that he was "strong"? tates that the Queen, anxious to conceal his true condition from the people, has been in the babit of availing herself of his lucid intera monarch could be. It has never been the impression, however, that he was "strong" in politics and state matters. The constitution which he submitted to his convoked states general was not a brilliant or a statesmalike effort, and the noisy spirits of 1848, suggested an idea or two for his reflection which so troubled his moddle that he took to drink-"Verye Clicquot" champagne for solace; and he tound so much comfort in that exhilarating liquor that he drank himself into an idiotic state. The last intelligence from Prussia announces the appointment of the Prince of Prussia as regent, so the King may hence forth "keep it up" until as late as he pleases, with never a care for to-morrow, his occupation now being only to "guzzle."

A Periodical Wonder at Naples.

The Naples correspondent of the Time having alluded to the apprehensions of revolution not unnaturally prevalent in the Neapolitan dominions, says:

"I turn from these melancholy forebodings to report the cheerful and encouraging fact of the successful hundration of the blood of St. Januarius, on Sunday last, at a quarter past 9 o'clock; a fact which was announced to the world by the firing of cannon from the forts all round the capital."

There seems to be a propriety in announcing the liquefaction of the blood of St. Januarius by a succession of bounces, than the biggest of which the alleged phenomenon may be said to be a bigger. But is it we who mistake that matter, and not those who witness it! S it possible that we are unbelieving fools; and that they see a real miracle? A Below we publish a letter to Dr. Wood, of this city, from a gentleman in Maine, which speaks giowinely of the superior merits of his Hair Toole. Such evidences must have its effect, when coming from a reliable source. If certificates are remarantees of truth, the Dr. needs neconiums, nor usenes putfery from the press;

March Add Barth, Marks Jan. 20, 1838. GENERAL INTELLIGENCE.

Muscle vs. Stram.—A singular match took place at Buffalo a tew days since. Captain Beman of the steam ferry boat Orgnet wagered Mr. I. Staley of Grand Island the sum of forty dollars, that the latter could not pull a boat from Grand Island to Biack Rock while the steamer was going the same distance—nine miles. Mr. Staley obtained the race boat Mary, of Buffalo, and won the race by a minute and a half. The nine miles was accomplished by Mr. Staley, against a four mile current, in one hour and thriteen minutes, and by the steamer in one hour and fourteen and a half minutes. The steamer was built less toying, and is considered the fastest boat west of New York.

The MANUFACTURE OF BONNEYS.—The Nancertificates are guarantees of truth, the Dr. needs no encomman, nor usees a puffer from the press. 20, 1858.

Professor O. J. Wood & Ch.
Gastrasmis.—Having my attention called a few months since to the highly beneficial effects of your nat restorative. I was induced to missice application of it upon my twite; in my whisters were of same character. Form three months since I procured a bottle of your hair restorative, and used it. I soon found it was proving what I had controlled to the control of the procured and the controlled to the controlled

Prench law of marriage, and the following recent illustration of it may not be winfout interest to our lady readers. Galagnani says:

Considerable interest was lately excited in a case of intermarriage which has occurred at Pau. A Frenchman of respectable family in that place, some time age made the acquaint-succe of a young English girl, and fell in love with her. Che represented that she was of highly respectable family, and had a fortune of 24,000 deposited at Coutar Bank. He went to England and was duly married to her in the England form, at a place called Ledbary. But it turned out that his wife was of low origin, and had not a farthing in the world; and the poor husband was not only arrested for debis which she had incurred, but placed himself in a serious predicament by drawing on Mesara. Couts for tunds which she did not possess. He was undoubtedly duped, but nevertheless he remained her husband. His family however took legal proceedings to have the marriage set uside, and the Court of Fau has decided that it it is null and void, insemach as it was not effected in accordance with French law—in not having been published in France, and the consent of the young man's parents not having been published in the first on the french as well as the Englash law are observed.

Who are Legal Voters? --How to P vent Hiegal Voting.

The law requires that a voter should have sided one year in the State, and be an advant of deal of the precinct or town in which he ed his vote. A mere sojourner or transient per is not entitled to vote. And in regard to we constitutes a residence the Supreme flower. constitutes a residence, the Supreme Court Illinois has decided as follows: "This resi ence is, however, to be bone fide, and not casual Imporary."

Many of the central counties are swarmis with "Greeks," imported from other parts with in the past fortnight, for the sole and especin parpose of carrying the close counties for Douglas.

When these itinerant voting machines per smithemselves next Tuesday, we advise the Lincoin challengers to demand that they sha show their papers, as half of them have never been asturalized. been naturalized,

The only form of an oath that these vagabone regard as binding upon their consciences, is o a Bible with a cross on it. When they present their tickets to vote, ask them where their wive and children are. Ask them when they came from the constitution of the constitut with and who pays their expenses. You will probably obtain enough information to show that they are not legally and honestly voters in your precinct; if so, advise them to frauel as fast as they legs can take them away.

It is improparate to have a maginarie and some fast as ther legs can take them away.

It is important to have a magistrate and constable near each place of voting in the "invades counties," so that the first man who depests as illegal vote may Be promptly arrested and sent to prison. A complaint upon belief under each to prison. A complaint upon belief under each is enough to authorize a warrant and arrest, and the magistrate can commit for further examination until witnesses can be obtained. One or two such arrests in the morning, will exercise a salutary influence and may deter others from altempting so hazardous and criminal an act. But in addition to these precautions or where they cannot be employed, go to the poils prepared to present fraudulent cotang, and employ whatever means is necessary to protect the purity of the ballot-box. This is your inclienable right as an American citizen. Lincoln can only be defeated by foul play. Let there be fair play in your precinct and county. Do your duly as an American freeman, and let consequences take care of themselves.

queness take care of themselves.

The French Voters of Chicago.

There are in this city about 400 naturalized editions whose mother tongue is French. Some are Canadians, others Belgians and Italians, and other have been born in La bells France. Of this number 375 are natural Republicans. There are not two doy, of the whole French voting population of this city that support the pro-lavery Democracy. There is no class of people in Chicago so generally Republican as these belonging to the great Gallic family of mations—save the Scandinavians. They are a liberty-loving, slavery-hating people, who can not be humbogged by the professions of the hum Democracy. They despise Douglas and hate Buchenan, read the Paras and Tamurs, support the Republican party, obey the lawa, pay their taxes, and attend to their own business. The French are the controlling element in Kankakee County, and there, as here, nearly all vote with the Republicans.

Get Naturalized.

There are only two secular days before the election and there are a great many Republicans not yet naturalized who are entitled to their papers. If such persons will call at this office between the hours of 9 A. M. and 6 P. M. we will aid them in procuring their final pepera. The spilicant must make proof that he has
